The UAA – Where Theory Meets Practice

For 30 years, the University Athletic Association continues to serve as a bold statement of the vision of its founders — that the pursuit of academic and athletic excellence are complementary goals and can be achieved without the compromise of one by the other. The members of the UAA hold that the success of intercollegiate athletics is wholly dependent upon institutional integrity and the ability of institutions to complete the full integration of athletics into the academic fabric of higher education.

The UAA is a significant expression of the principle that the provision of a high-quality college athletic experience is worth the commitment required of an institution. It is worthwhile not only because it benefits the student-athletes, but also because it benefits the entire campus community and, in turn, the institution itself.

Members of the UAA share the belief that academic excellence and athletic excellence are not mutually exclusive. Implicit in this belief are several sets of assumptions. The first is that the academic enterprise is the primary element. Student-athletes are just that — students first and athletes second.

The second set of assumptions has to do with athletic excellence. Athletic excellence is not to be confused with a win-at-all-costs attitude. It properly relates to the caliber of experience offered to students who participate in intercollegiate athletics. Athletic teams should have the benefit of qualified coaching — capable individuals chosen for professional competence and commitment to putting the welfare of the student first. They should play and practice in first-rate facilities at reasonable times. Their equipment should be safe, of high quality, and conducive to the best performance possible. A consistent and challenging level of athletic competition should be provided to both women and men.

The final assumptions concern what might be termed a proper athletic emphasis. Athletic programs are extracurricular activities conducted for students and should be given consideration similar to that accorded other such institutionally sponsored activities. They should not only complement the academic experience, but should also reflect the quality of the academic environment within which they exist. Division III is an approach to athletics — not a synonym for third-rate.

The University Athletic Association sponsors competition in 23 sports — twelve sports for men and 11 sports for women — including football, soccer, cross country, volleyball, basketball, fencing, wrestling, swimming and diving, indoor track and field, baseball, softball, outdoor track and field, tennis, and golf.

Many student-athletes from UAA institutions have been recognized for their achievements as scholars and athletes. During the 2016-17 academic year, 44 student-athletes from UAA institutions were recognized as CoSIDA Academic All-America® honorees, which included the Honda D3 Athlete of the Year, three Academic All-American of the Year honorees, and one NCAA Elite 90 award winner. 142 received All-America honors in team or individual sports, 16 garnered individual national championship event titles or national Player of the Year honors, and 20 others won NCAA titles in relays.

In addition, 15 student-athletes from UAA institutions were among the select group of seniors across the country named NCAA Postgraduate or Fulbright Scholars.

Teams throughout the UAA are perennial contenders for post-season play. In 2016-17, UAA teams captured the NCAA title in women's soccer, men's and women's swimming and diving, women's indoor track and field, men's tennis, and women's outdoor track and field. In all, 25 UAA teams posted top-ten finishes in their national championships, including 15 among the top-five, and 11 others finished in the top twenty.

The theoretical . . .

Academic excellence and athletic excellence are not mutually exclusive.

The academic enterprise is the primary element.

Athletic excellence properly relates to the caliber of experience offered to students.

Athletic programs should reflect the quality of the academic environment within which they exist.

A consistent and challenging level of athletic competition should be provided for both women and men.

The actual . . .

In 2016-17, 44 student-athletes from UAA institutions were recognized as CoSIDA Academic All-America® honorees and 15 were named NCAA Postgraduate or Fulbright Scholars.

142 UAA student-athletes received All-America honors with 36 garnering individual/relay national championship or national Player of the Year accolades.

In 2016-17 NCAA championship competition, 25 UAA teams finished in the top 10 with six winning NCAA titles, and another 11 finished in the top 20.

Statement on Sportsmanship

The members of the University Athletic Association are committed to principles of good sportsmanship. We believe that all student-athletes, coaches, and spectators should strive to represent the very best spirit and tradition of intercollegiate athletics. We request your cooperation by supporting the participants and officials in a positive manner. Thank you.

Be Loud, Be Proud, Be Positive

Cheer for your team, not against the opponents.

Don't get personal in your comments about players, coaches, and officials.

No profanity, vulgarity, racist, or sexist comments.
